Historic Window Workshop

Ipswich Public Library Collins Meeting Room on Saturday, March 18th at 10 a.m.

The IHC invites you to join window restoration expert and craftsman Alison Hardy for a workshop that covers history, techniques and the importance of saving traditional wooden windows.

This workshop is ideal for homeowners, do-it-yourselfers or anyone interested in the basics of wood window repair. Learn the terminology, tools, and techniques behind stripping, refinishing and re-glazing.

Alison Hardy, owner of Window Woman of New England, has restored and repaired windows in homes both grand and modest in Boston's North Shore for the past thirteen years. After a career in the textile industry, she gave up the clean world of fabrics and color for the dirty, but rewarding world of sawdust and putty. She is a member of Historic New England, Historic Salem, Preservation Trades Network, New England Window Restoration Alliance and the National Window Preservation Alliance. She is frequent presenter at Traditional Building Conferences.
